Dr. Jill Lopez, Essentials PetCare Director of Marketing, Appears as Guest on Beyond the Stethoscope

LARGO, FL – Dr. Angela Demaree, the host of Beyond the Stethoscope podcast, the podcast for veterinarians, healthcare providers and busy professionals who want actionable, implementable solutions for accomplishing your goals and living your dreams, talks with Dr. Jill Lopez, Director of Marketing for Essentials PetCare.

With a mission to improve the lives of pets and their families by providing affordable and accessible, high quality veterinary care, Essentials PetCare brings a new approach in veterinary care. The company's walk-in model provides minor illness exams and vaccines with convenient hours, flexible scheduling, and routine care, which allow for the peace of mind and work-life harmony that staff may not find at a traditional full-service hospital.

The podcast will focus on the unique career path of Dr. Lopez and how she transitioned from a practicing veterinarian to marketing executive in the animal health industry.

About Essentials PetCare

Established in 2015, Essentials PetCare, LLC provides affordable and accessible veterinary care for dogs and cats. The company's mission is to expand veterinary care to a greater number of U.S. pet-loving families who would otherwise not seek basic and preventative care because of cost. Essentials PetCare believes that no animal should ever suffer or put their family at risk of contracting diseases due to affordability.
